Catie said that Doreen had donated another coffee pot and that she needs more volunteers to bring food for upcoming meetings. Bev said that there would be a few duplicate books and magazines for sale along with the stash sale in December.

Jane asked if anyone had trouble getting to the November newsletter and offered to talk to a couple of members during the break about possible problems. W.W. said he had not mailed the November newsletters yet due to lack of address labels. He also indicated that there were 5 openings remaining in the March workshop with Betsy Blumenthal. Marisa asked everyone to pick up their directories, and Sandy reminded us to pick up the samples, but to not take the large envelope.

Judi said the list of members who will weave interpretations of the coverlets has been forwarded to the Colorado Springs Pioneers Museum and that Sandy will be sending more information to each person about the coverlet that was chosen. Judi needs volunteers to help sew sleeves on the coverlets which will be displayed. The opening date for the coverlet show is April 26, but the date for the opening reception has not yet been set. She said the Fabulous Fiber Fund Raiser II was very successful. Maryse discussed picking up items at CommonWheel on Monday and refunded part of the entry fee to each entrant. Bev mentioned the postmark deadline for the Living With Beauty: Handwoven Textiles for the Home is December 15. Any PPWG member who needs a few extra days to hand-deliver entries should contact Bev or Susan in advance. The meeting was adjourned at 10:20 am.
