

Left: Deb Greer writes "It's a shawl for my step Mom, Dee who LOOOOVVEEEESS Red and Black. She's allergic to all of our yummy critter fibers so I took the plunge (EEK) into Red Heart Super Savers Yarn, a space dyed boucle (couldn't help myself, had to Navajo Ply it to make it thick and cushiony like chenille but won't shed like chenille) and Love this Yarn! Sparkly black. Ya know, I absolutely hated how dead that polyester yarn felt in my hands while warping, but Dee can crochet with it and not have any allergic effects, and she can throw it in the washer and dryer with no ill effects. And now that it's done - my first serious foray into Log Cabin weave, I LIKE IT! Dee will love wearing it." Photo by Deb Greer.

Andreas' Fast Kladdkaka (Swedish Mudcake) from Siv Nelson

Andreas is my son-in-law, and we exchange recipes from time to time. Did you know Andreas invented the Speed baking concept? This cake is a "Class C"-cake, which means that it takes about 7 minutes from turning on the oven, preparing and put it into the oven. With a baking time of 23 minutes, this cake is finished within 30 minutes!

1 butter stick (113 grams), grease the pan with the butter stick and melt the rest

2 eggs

1 1/3 c (3 dl) sugar

2 1/2 t vanilla sugar

1/2 t salt

4 T cacao powder

3/4 c (1 1/2 dl) flour

Coconut flakes, sweetened or bread crumbs

Set oven to 350 F (175 C)

Grease a 10 inch (24 cm) round baking pan with part of the butter.

Shake around coconut flakes or bread crumbs in the pan.

Use a mixer or a bowl.

Mix everything together – it doesn't matter if it not completely mixed.

Pour into baking pan.

Bake for 20 - 25 minutes. The longer time will make the cake a little dryer.
